Warm-up

The Hollywood Walk of Fame. It's known all over the world. Some are famous, some you know, others you hardly recognize, and others you've never heard of. But each is a star, and everyone of these Hollywood stars have a story. With nearly three and a half miles of sidewalk, nearly 2,400 stars, and over 100 years of history, the Hollywood Walk of Fame is a lot to take in.

The Hollywood Bowl is a huge outdoor concert hall that opened in 1922. It's one of the largest outdoor theaters in the world. Because Los Angeles has a desert climate, concerts are seldom cancelled due to bad weather.

B. Listen and practice.

Brad: How was your date with Casey last night?

Jason: It was awful. I blew it.

Brad: I'm really sorry, Jason.

Jason: Thanks... Hey, where are we? Let's ask for directions.

Brad: Excuse me. Where's the Walk of Fame?

Stranger: It's on Hollywood Boulevard, between Vine and Fairfax Avenue. Go north on Highland Avenue, and turn left on Hollywood Boulevard. The Walk of Fame is right there.

Jason: Thank you.

Stacey: How was your date with Jason last night?

Casey: It was great.

Stacey: I'm so glad.

Casey: Thanks... I think we're lost. Why don't we ask for directions?

Casey: Excuse me. Can you tell us how to get to the Walk of Fame?

Stranger: Sure. Go south on Highland Ave., and turn right at the first corner. That's Hollywood Blvd.

Stacey: Thanks.
